JURY GETS THAW CASE TOMORROW

JEROME WON'T CALL ANY MEDICAL EXPERTS.

STATE'S CASE ABOUT DONE

Many Witnesses of Shooting and Attendant Circumstances are Examined Today.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—R. B. Lingley, a public accountant, who was on Madison Square garden the night of the shooting, was the first witness in the rebuttal. He said Thaw seemed perfectly rational. He was not cross-examined.

Mayer Cohen, manager of a music publishing house, also saw Thaw then, and thought him rational. Counsel is still trying to arrange an agreement which will do away with a court session on Blackwell Island. B. F Blaese, a music publisher, Paul Brune, a city fireman, and Warner Paxton, engineer at the garden, also saw the tragedy and believed Thaw rational.

Policeman Anthony Debs, who arrested Thaw, and Officer Dennis Wright, who took him to the station, both swore that Thaw acted rational.

Dr. Francis McGuire, the Tombs physician, was not permitted to testify, as Littleton invoked the code section which prohibits a doctor testifying as to information obtained while acting in his professional capacity.

To Jury Tomorrow.

Jerome has decided not to call any medical experts in rebuttal.

At noon he announced his only desire was to dispose of the Hummel matter before closing the rebuttal.

Thaw's fate will be in the hands of the jury some time tomorrow.

The state's case on rebuttal was practically complete with the examination of ten witnesses this morning. The defense plans to have the summing up begin at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

The state rested its case at 3:00 o'clock.

TEMPLE OF LABOR IN WASHINGTON D. C.

HALF MILLION DOLLARS TO BE RAISED.

ALL UNIONS WILL ASSIST

National Association Is Incorporated and Site Will be Chosen in a Short Time.

Washington Bureau of
The La Crosse Tribune.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28.

A national temple of labor will be built in Washington, according to plans which have been set on foot here by prominent leaders of organized labor. It is the intention to construct a building that will cost a half million dollars, which can be used for the purpose of holding conventions or meetings of any sort in which organized labor is concerned. The site of the proposed building has not been settled on but it will be about the center of the city and in size and beauty it will rank with many of the government buildings.

Labor organizations throughout the country are expected to give funds to aid in the erection of the building. It is the intention to make the structure a monument to organized labor.

All the organized labor bodies of the city will have quarters in the building, where they can hold their regular meetings. The local bodies will, of course, contribute most heavily toward the fund. At the same time there will be large halls for mass meetings and one large convention hall where national gatherings can be held. It is expected one result of the construction of such a building will be to bring many of the national meetings of labor bodies to Washington. So far as reading rooms, smoking rooms, billiard parlors and the like, the building will be amply provided.

For the purpose of furthering the movement, the National Temple of Labor Associations has been incorporated. It is independent and not under the control of any of the labor organizations. Arrangements have been made to give the movement impetus by holding a grand ball here this week. It is expected a considerable sum will be cleared for the benefit of the fund. President Roosevelt and members of the cabinet as well as many public officials have sanctioned the project. One of the noteworthy letters of endorsement has come from Secretary Root.

Two sites are under consideration for the building and it is likely one will be chosen in a short time.

DIRECT PLURALITY SHOWS STRENGTH

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 28.—Investigation of the state charitable institutions will probably be resumed Wednesday afternoon at Lincoln. If the house disposes of the primary question tomorrow the committee will leave on the noon train for Lincoln. Chairman Hill announced today Bartonville will be taken next for the investigation. The committee will decide late today what to do with the list of accidents turned over to them by the secretary of the board of charities.

Friends of the direct plurality in the nomination of candidates showed strength this morning in the house by voting down all amendments to the Jones-Oglesby bill and sent measure on to its third reading. It will be voted on tomorrow morning. Advocates of the measure declared the passage of the bill is assured.

LABOR COMMITTEE TO BE WITHDRAWN

The trades and labor council has withdrawn its committee from active service, as it offered to assist only in case a permanent structure was erected.

A session was held yesterday afternoon from 4.30 to 5:30 p. m. in the La Crosse club rooms, and another will be held this evening at the La Crosse board of trade offices by the La Crosse board of trade committee and the saengerfest committee.

They will discuss further ways and means for raising the required guarantee fund to a larger sum.

The suit of former City Attorney P. W. Mahoney against the city for $150 alleged damages to his automobile in coming in contact with a wire on State street on his way to League park last summer, was continued for two weeks in Justice Hunt's court today. The complaint has not been filed by the plaintiff in the action.

GOSSNELL BETTER.

SIR BRYAN TO THE RESCUE

News Item—Mr. Bryan is about to visit Frankfort in behalf of Beckham's senatorial campaign.

LITERALLY JERKS DEATH TOWARD HIM

REMARKABLE SUICIDE OF JOHN GOETTCHE LAST NIGHT

PULLED TRIGGERS ON SPIKE

Both Charges of Shotgun Enter His Bared Breast—Said to Have Quarreled Over Property

After driving two long spikes into the door jam and placing double barreled shotgun so that the triggers came over it and the gun would be discharged at the slightest touch, John Goettche, aged 48 years, residing in the rear of 809 South Fourth street, calmly removed both of his shirts, seated himself directly in front of the barrels of the gun and jerked the weapon towards him, receiving both charges full in his bare breast. Death was instantaneous.

As near as can be learned Mr. Goettche took his life about 5:30 last night, as it was at this time that the shots were heard by the neighbors. He was all alone in the house at the time.

According to the story told to the police by Mrs. Goettche, she had been visiting at the home of her son, Henry Platz, 414 Johnson street, during the afternoon, returning home about 8:30. She found the house in darkness and upon gaining an entrance stumbled over the shotgun which was lying on the floor of the kitchen. She struck a light and upon entering the dining room found the body of her husband lying on the floor with two fearful wounds in his breast. The police were immediately notified and arrived to find the man dead. The gun, which was a 10 guage, double barrel, was lying in the kitchen and contained two empty shells, while two loaded shells were still on the table. The kick of the gun is supposed to have sent it flying into the kitchen, as the nail was driven into the jam between the kitchen and dining room.

Mrs. Emil Olson, residing at 809 South Fourth street, heard the shots along about 5:30, but attached no special significance to them.

According to statements of neighbors Mr. Goettche has had frequent quarrels with his wife lasting over a period of more than a year and that he has threatened to commit suicide on other occasions, the most recent being last summer, when he threatened to shoot himself. The quarrels are said to have originated over Mrs. Goettche's refusal to divide the property, which is in her name, between her husband and herself. The property was left to her by her first husband, Mr. Platz, who met an accidental death by drowning thirteen or fourteen years ago. Ever since her marriage to Mr. Goettche, twelve years ago, the taxes, improvements, etc., have been paid by Mr. Goettche

CLOSE INTIMACY IN GUERIN AFFAIR

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Evidence showing that the most intimate relations existed between Mrs. Dora McDonald and the family of Webster Guerin, the victim of her jealous love, was given today by Mrs. Avis Dargan Guerin, wife of the brother of the dead man. She told of meeting with the defendant three weeks before the tragedy, at which time the latter reproached her for receiving the attentions of Guerin.

The presence of Archie Guerin and Harry Feldman, Mrs. McDonald's brother, prevented a physical clash.

PLANS READY FOR GREAT REVIVALS

NOTED EVANGELISTS COME TO LA CROSSE MONDAY

MEETINGS IN BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. W. B. Riley, Who Recently Lectured Hee on "Beauty, Brains and Boodle" a Speaker

The final plans of a thorough organization for the coming of Evangelists W. B. Riley and M. E. Martin to La Crosse are being perfected. This evangelistic movement under these two noted men, bids fair to become one of the greatest cures of religious meetings ever held in the city.

The meetings will begin next Monday night, Feb. 3rd and will be held in the First Baptist church auditortum unless that building proves inadequate to accommodate the crowds that are sure to attend, in which ease arrangements will be made to move to some larger building. It is said by those who have known of their work, that just such a change of building has been necessary in many places where Dr. Riley and Rev. Martin have held meetings.

La Crosse is most fortunate to secure these two evangelists for this series of meetings. It is known to a few personal friends of Dr. Riley in La Crosse that the very week he signed to come here he refused three other invitations to much larger places. He is in constant demand for revival meetings, Sunday school addresses, Y. M. C. A. conventions, and religious and philanthropic gatherings of every kind. At the Wisconsin state convention of the Y. M. C. A. recently held at Appleton, Dr. Riley occupied five places on the program, giving five addresses of an hour each. During the month of March, Dr. Riley wil be associated with Dr. Chapman in one of the greatest evangelistic movements of the whole country. A large number of evangelists will hold simultanepus meetings in Philadelphia under the direction of Chapman and Riley.

At the last meeting of the official board of the First Baptist church the various committees to make arrangements for the campaign here in La Crosse have appointed Mr. C. F. Emery will be chief usher and chairman of the personal workers committee, the same position he had in the Biedewolf campaign of last winter. Miss Cassie Mahlum, musical director at the Baptist church will be chairman of the music committee. Mr. H. L. Taylor was appointed on the advertising committee. P. M. Beink was appointed chairman of the finance committee.

ATTEMPT TO STOP BRYAN FALLS FLAT

OPPONENTS DIDN'T EVEN HAVE NERVE TO TALK TO HIM

PEERLESS ONE IN CAPITOL

Receives Bushels of Telegrams Urging Him to Distain Efforts to Discourage Him.

Washington Bureau of
The La Crosse Tribune.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28.
(By J. C. Wellive..)

Thus far, the expected has been happening as a result of William Jennings Bryan's visit in Washington. The proposed movement to reason with Mr. Bryan and convince him that as a true patriot and loyal supporter of his party's interest he ought to get out of the race for president, failed completely. The result thus far has been quite to the contrary of that which was hoped for.

The announcement of an intention to make such assault on the Nebraskan went over the country, and it had the effect of calling forth the insistent protests of his friends. At the Metropolitan hotel Mr. Bryan found a stack of telegrams and letrets from all parts of the county, whose substance could be put into one phrase: "Stand pat." His friends of years past seemed to have united in a determined effort to forestall any effort to get him to withdraw from the race, or even to give consideration to urgencies of those who wanted him to withdraw.

A bushel of such messages could hardly fail of effect on any man. Those who knew Mr. Bryan best did not expect that he would be much moved by entreaties, even if he received no reasurances from the country at large. But after he had looked over his messages and letters there was little chance of anything changing his purpose.

"Mr. Bryan has said, explained a friend of his, "that the urgencies of those who have always opposed him, and would oppose him again, will have no influence on his course. You can say that the fight is over and we have won. Mr. Bryan will be nominated on the first ballot. Yes, I think there will be a ballot; but there is no doubt of the result."

The truth is that the movement for a conference and argument with Mr. Bryan vanished into air about the time he got to town. Nobody wanted to initiate the discussion with him. Mr. Bryan delivered a sermon at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, saw a few friends during the day, and in the evening was the guest of Senator Newlands of Nevada, at a dinner to democratic senators at the home of the Nevada senator. Another dinner to another party of democratic senators, will be given tonight.

"It's entirely useless for such men as Billy Sheehan and Jim Smith of New Jersey, and others of their kind to try now ,after the years they have opposed Mr. Bryan, to induce him to get out of their way, while the millions who have been steadfastly supporting him are laying down on him to be the party candidate, was said in behalf of Mr. Bryan. "I don't know what has become of these gentlemen who were going to urge the matter of his withdrawal on Mr. Bryan. I suspect that they have gone back to Wall street, whence they came."

POLICE HURRY TO KILL SMALL PUPPY

Upon complaint from the vicinity of the home of Mike Hayes, South Sixth street, a policeman was hurried out this afternoon and slaughtered a small dog which had been gamboling about the alley. The first shot brought forth a shriek of terror, but with a couple more shots the blue coated guardian of the law was enabled to depart, leaving the silent form upon the cold ground. Mr. Yolton of police headquarters was unaware, when interviewed, that anything was going on, and volunteered that had he known it, he should have guarded the information closely, as is his wont.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF COMING WEDDING

KEMPF RELIEVED OF RESPONSIBILITY

STOCKHOLDERS OF LADYSMITH BANK HELD LIABLE

SUPREME COURT RULINGS

Former State Treasurer Put $12,000 More in That Institution Than the Law Allowed

MADISOS, Wis., Jan. 28.—(Special.)—Former State Treasurer John J. Kempf today finally tumbled off the anxious seat over suits to determine the responsibility for loss to the state occasioned by the failure of the Ladysmith First National bank, in which were state funds.

The supreme court today in the case of the state vs. O. E. Pederson, J. W. Fritz, O. C. Sabin, J. H. Pederson, Assemblyman E. A. Forbes and Robert Corbett, all of Ladysmith, and all bondsmen of the bank, holds the defendant bondsmen responsible. The bank failed June 2, 1905, while it contained state funds amounting to $12,000 in excess of the amount allowed by law, placed there by Kempf. During 1906 the state got back all but $2,131.31, and the state contemplated suing the bondsmen of Kempf, because Kempf acted without a warrant of law.

Today's decision, while it does not exculpate Kempf, effectually prevents further suits against him because the money will now be paid. Kempf is now a bankrupt himself.

Other Cases.

The cases against the Milwaukee Heat, Light & Traction company, appeals by the owners of property abutting the interurban line of the company in Waukesha, from the awards in condemnation suits, were reversed by the court. This made a victory for the property owners. There were seven suits of a similar nature against the Beggs company.

The court also reversed the preliminary order in the suit of Elizabeth McNaughton vs. Ina Jane Plumb. By the will of Miss McNaughton, she left $80,000 to Carroll college, Waukesha, Wis., and the heirs are contesting the will. This case has not been settled.

MARQUETTE SORE AT CLARK'S ACTION

DECLARE FORMER COACH DID KNOCKING

HE WILL NOT BE RETAINED

Said to Have Told Coach Hutchins of University to Call Off Game With Milwaukee School

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 28.—Students at Marquette university are wroth at Coach Cody Clark, former star in the University of Wisconsin backfield, for alleged knocking he did at Madison, Wis., recently, in informing Coach Hutchins to call off the proposed game with Marquette university next fall. Clark is said to have told Coach Hutchins that Marquette would be weak on the gridiron and not capable of giving the university team a stiff fight.

At the Milwaukee school, the students claim Clark took up this course in revenge for the enemies he made last fall, when coaching the team. The athletes and coaches believe Clark's actions will not have any effect on the game and that negotiations will be concluded.

Clark will not be retained as coach but a graduate of the school will be hired to take charge of the team next fall.

"Clark's actions are childish at best," said Athletic Director Corboy. "He made a host of enemies during his stay at Marquette, adn is now trying to 'get even' by representing the school in a bad light to the authorities at Madison. I have not received any word from Prof. Hutchins for the last few days, but I do not expect that Clark's brilliant coup will have any effect on Marquette's chances of securing a game next fall.

"Clark must have changed his mind lately if he says that Marquette will be weak on the gridiron next fall. The team will lose only two men this June, and there is plenty of good material in the school to fill their places. All the other members of the squad are satisfied with the conditions at Marquette and have promised to come back. We have not decided on next year's coach."

LEAGUE TO FIGHT ENJOINING ORDER

EAU CLAIRE CLUB WILL MEET WITH OPPOSITION.

MOLL EMPLOYS ATTORNEYS

President Asks Hearing be Advanced —March 28 Is Too Late for Settlement.

Officials of the Wisconsin-Illinois league already have started to break the injunction secured by the Eau Claire club to prevent a proposed change in the circuit. President C. F. Moll yesterday employed Umbreit & Umbreit, Milwaukee attorneys, to represent the league in the injunction case, and they will be assisted by Attorney John Moran of Madison, president of the Madison club, and by Attorney John Kluvin of Oshkosh.

Will Seek Change of Venue.

The first step of the league will be to secure a change of venue and an application will be made to Judge O'Neill asking that the hearing on the injunction be transferred from Judge Blum's court, Eau Claire, to some other court, preferably before a Milwaukee judge.

President Moll declared yesterday that the league will fight the case to the end, and he expressed confidence that the injunction would be dissolved and the league be allowed to proceed with the contemplated change.

Five Clubs Favor Rockford.

"The league constitution says that the circuit may be changed any time a majority of the club owners vote in favor of it," declared Mr. Moll in Milwaukee. "Five of the clubs are in favor of admitting Rockford and removing Eau Claire. The Eau Claire club was not a financial success last year. The team finished way in the rear and the attendance was poor. Rockford is a live town, and ripe for good baseball. There is a population of approximately 80,000 to draw from.

"I shall do everything possible to hasten a decision on the injunction and I expect that the matter will be decided long before March 23, the date on which the injunction is refurnable. It is absolutely necessary that we have a settlement soon in order to proceed with arrangements for next season."

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS. PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

HERMANN TAKES POT SHOT AT PULLIAM

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—"If President Pulliam of the National league is postponing his resignation in the hope that I may side in with him and advise the minors to heed his demands, then he may as well give up his office right now, for I do not care if he quits his post or not."

This is the statement made by Garry Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati club, when he heard that Pulliam had announced his intention to resign at the meeting of the National league on Feb. 24 unless Herrmann supported him in his controversy with the national association in regard to the alleged blacklisting of players.

"Pulliam will get my support when he deserves it and not before. At present he does not deserve it. The national commission has laid down its rules to the National association, and it has agreed to abide by our decision. That being so, there is no call for all this strenuous quarreling Pulliam gets too excited over what he reads in the papers, and is too busy to rush into print with his answers.

"I will not support him in his undignified attacks on the officials of the National association. The commission has the word of the association members that they will stand by the baseball laws, and there is therefore no further argument necessary at this time.

RUBE WADDEL COMES FORTH AS PUGILIST

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28.—Mike Schreck has started a week of strenuous training here. He is going to pull off 10 pounds at least before the gong taps on the night of Jan. 31, and he mixes it with Tony Ross in a ten-round bout before the Southern Athletic club of New Orleans. Schreck has the only Rube Waddell as sparring partner. The mighty Rube has constituted himself Schreck's trainer, the two having been friends for years and claiming Cincinnati as their home, George Edward Waddell received a bloody nose before two minutes had elapsed, but he was proud of it.

FURNACE LEAKS; SERVICE DISMISSED

The services at the Baptist church Sunday evening had to be dismissed on account of an accident to the heating plant.

About 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon Edward Mabie, the janitor of the church, went to the basement to fire up for the evening service. But he found such a leak in the boiler that it was impossible to keep up the heat. Various members of the official board were immediately called but the time was too short to do any repairing and it was finally decided to abandon the evening meeting.

E. G. Boynton and Geo. Barrett were appointed a committee to arrange for the immediate repairing of the boiler and workmen began early this morning on the work. It is expected that the church will be in shape to use for the Wednesday evening prayer meeting.

It was a source of great regret to the members of the church that the services had to be abandoned for a deep interest has been manifested in the evening meetings at the Baptist church.

John Sheilds, a vagrant, looking for a comfortable place to spend the threatened cold spell, received twenty days board and lodging at the countyjail from Judge Brindley on a plea of guilty to vagrancy Saturday afternoon. Shields was pleased with the sentence, but asked for more.

STOP THEATRE PANIC

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 28.—D. E. Bradish stopped a terrible panic in the Grand opera house here Sunday night.

The Evans cafe, across the alley from the playhouse, was burning, and smoke issued through an open window into the opera house. Some one yelled "fire" and the inevitable happened.

Mr. Bradish jumped to the stage and yelled at the top of his voice: "Keep your seats, there is no fire in this house."

This did not stop some of them. The most conservative kept their heads, but a general rush followed. Plenty of police were on hand and in a few minutes quiet was restored. The fire was extinguished, and the "Two Orphans" that was playing was allowed to continue.

About 1,200 people were in the theatre.

OVERCOMING THE RENT-PAYING HABIT

The experience of an old friend of mine, a man of moderate means, says Charles L. Benjamin in the Suburbanite, is worth relating for the benefit of family men who are still victims of the rent-paying habit. This friend was married some eighteen years ago, and started housekeeping in an apartment for which he paid $50.00 a month. His suite consisted of a parlor, dining room, kitchen, two bed rooms and bath, plenty of room for a young married couple even after the babies came. But babies have a way of growing up and the time arrived when the children, a boy and a girl, outgrew the little room that they had shared in infancy and the apartment had to be given up. My friend's first thought was to lease another and larger apartment, but before doing so he did a little figuring. He found that during the first ten years of his married life he had paid in rent just $6,000.00 and all he had to show for this expenditure was a collection of receipted bills. The home that he and his wife had dreamed of was as far off as ever but with the receipted bills for that $6,000.00 rent money before them they resolved that the dream should become a reality. They had saved several thousand dollars and two thousand of it they invested then and there in a suburban home, the balance of the purchase price, $4,000.00, being covered by a mortgage. Interest on the mortgage at six per cent amounted to $240.00 a year, just $20.00 a month. The balance of the $50.00 they had been accustomed to pay for rent was set aside to pay off the mortgage. In five years' time the $30.00 deposited in the bank each month amounted with interest to nearly $2,000.00, which was used to reduce the mortgage. Since then the remaining $2,000.00 has been paid and my friend and his wife have a home of their own at last. Now they have a home to leave to the children, but if they had started right at the beginning they would have had a home to leave to each of them. The $6,000.00 paid in rent in the first ten years of their married life, still haunts them. The facts contained in the foregoing narrative should appeal to all who read it and lead them to ask themselves the question: Did I start right? If the answer is, Still Paying Rent, then you did not start right. Think this over Mr. Rent-Payer and then come to me and let us talk it over.

THIS SNAKE NEEDS A PRESS AGENT.

In view of the temptation and the opportunity, Louis Schultz, a barber of Trenton, N. J., is not profiting as much as he might from his pet rattlesnake, and the thought that he must lose columns upon columns of free advertising because of his inability to employ a press agent is actually saddening.

All that Louis Schultz and his friends are doing—all, indeed, that they can do, under the circumstances—is to stick closely to the bare facts which are these:

A few Sundays ago, while the barber was taking a stroll through the woods near Trenton, he came suddenly upon a rattlesnake about five feet in length and wearing fifteen buttons, seven on the left and eight on the right side. The snake neither attempted to get away not to attack Mr. Schultz, but, by making what were evidently intended to be friendly advances, strove rather to win the confidence of the barber. For example, it wound itself around his leg and, after looking in his pockets as if expecting to find candy there rubbed its head against his face and purred softly like a kitten.

Mr. Schultz was so favorably struck by the friendly disposition of the snake that he walked home wearing it, as it were, on his person, and since then it has been a regular feature of his barber shop. Men waiting for shaves and haircuts, and not caring for either the funny papers or the Police Gazette, fondle the rattler, and the reptile, instead of repelling them, courts their caresses. Now and then it wanders out on the sidewalk and playfully chases a dog or scares some school children, but as a rule it prefers to coil itself in one of the vacant chairs and listen with rapt attention while the customers talk politics.

Now, in the hands of a competent press agent, while the facts as given above would not be withheld from the public, other interesting points connected with Louis Schultz's ownership of the snake would be thought out and published, and people would flock from all parts of the country to Trenton after reading, for example, something like this.

Yesterday afternoon, while a customer of Louis Schultz was putting on his collar, after receiving a haircut, he dropped his collar button, which rolled into and down through a crack in the floor and was lost. Before the colored porter had time to make a dime by handing the customer another, the shop rattlesnake extended its tail toward the man. This kindly act was at once understood not only by the customer, but by everybody in the shop at the time, and when the former took off one of the snake's buttons and used it to fasten his collar behind the reptile wagged itself all over as if greatly pleased.

Or like this:

Last night, while Louis Schultz was shaving one of his star customers and his shop was thronged with partons, the electric current which operates the massage machine became interrupted in some way, and a man from New York who was taking facial treatment at the time became impatient, profane, and disorderly. He had begun to use some abusive language toward Mr. Schultz, who was striving to quiet him, when the shop rattlesnake, which is over five feet long, fastened its tail upon the crank of the massage machine and began to turn it. This simple little act not only appeased the man from New York, who confessed there and then that he had never seen anything to equal it, even on Broadway, but it put everybody in good humor for the rest of the evening. Mr. Schultz has been offered $5,000 for the snake, but will not accept any price.

These are intended only to show in a crude way what might be done if Trenton were anywhere within a radius of 500 miles of Chicago, for instance.—Inter-Ocean.

AS TO MARINES.

A doctor of medicine may be the best ever for a naval commander, but a "marine artist" is not the most expert and reliable critic of naval construction, as has recently been conclusively shown, first by the sensational article written by Mr. Reuterdahl, attacking the navy—which was published in McClure's.

Reuterdahl was probably honest in his intentions. He was given an opportunity to do something sensational, and cut loose. But that he did not know the facts whereof he wrote seems apparent from a reading of what the Scientific American has about it. Nobody, we imagine, will question which is better qualified to judge of naval construction.

The Reuterdahl criticism was mainly on the placing of the main armor belt on the battleships, basing it on somebody's suppositions that it is so low as to be entirely below the water-line when ships are heavily loaded.

The armored surface of a battleship is a slip about fifteen feet in width, with the main belt in all cases showing three feet or over above the water line, Reuterdahl did not come within three feet of the facts in any of his statements.

He said that, "In spite of the continued protests by our seagoing officers," not one of the five battleships now building "will have its main belt above the water line."

The Scientific American says "the facts are" that the lower belt of all of the five are from 3 feet, to 4 feet, 3 inches above.

Reuterdahl pretended to know that the broadside guns of the battleships would be useless in a seaway, because the roll of the ship would put them under water.

The Scientific American, which has no reputation as a marine artist at stake, says that the muzzles of our guns would be clear of the water when battleships of the "King Edward" class, and those of the "Triumph," and armored cruisers of the "Drake" class, of the British navy, would be rolling theirs under.

Says the Scientific American:

"We have always been a great admirer of Mr. Reuterdahl's marine pictures; and one of the chief elements of their charm, for the writer at least, is their freedom of treatment. The trouble with the present article is that the artist has carried this freedom of treatment into a field from which it should have been most rigidly excluded. The statement that 'broadside guns of foreign battleships and cruisers are, generally speaking, twice as high as ours, and many of them three times as high,' would be startling indeed if it were true. As a matter of fact, our broadside guns are as high as the similar broadside guns in the German and Japanese navies, and, as we have seen, are from 2 to 4½ feet higher than those in some of the finest modern battleships and cruisers of the British navy." —Free Press.

If the hero of the several high minded anonymous communications will state the case, the management will be pleased to clean out the whole force.

Prof. Monaghan says a Persian woman puts her ideals into a carpet and gets a fortune for it, while Americans make the kind that bring but a paltry sum.

Residents of the British Isles spend $125,000,000 annually for smoking tobacco.

It will probably be proved that large bodies move slowly, in the presidential race.

And in spite of Watterson Billy Bryan is going to invade Kentucky.

What It Meant.

Senator Dubois of Idaho is a bitter foe to Mormonism. In Aurora, Ill., he said recently:

"Mormonism, with its attendant polygamy, is, look at it how you will, a bad thing, a hopeless thing—as bad and hopeless as the case of Jacob Smithers."

Senator Dubois smiled.

"Jacob Smithers, criminal," he went on, "sat in his cell making paper boxes, when a dear old lady looked through the peephole in the door inquisitively.

"'You poor man,' said the old lady, 'I guess you'll be glad when your time is up, won't you?',

'Wall, no'm, not particularly,' Jacob Smithers answered. 'I'm in fur life.'"—Washington Star.

Battlefield Logic.

Among the men who served with Roosevelt's Rough Riders in Cuba was a little Dutch Jew, who, according to the men in his own troop, was "the very incarnation of cool, impudent bravado in a fight." He was a consistent fatalist.

One day he observed a comrade dodging a spent bullet that had whistled uncomfortably close to him.

"Vat's de use to todge dem pullets?" sang out the little Jew. "Dey'll hit you shust as vell vere you are as vere you ain't!"—Everybody's Magazine.

SPOTLIGHTS

The Three of Us.

"The three of Us" company, under the direction of Walter N. Lawrence, will play an engagement at the La Crosse theatre Friday night. When, a year ago, this delightful little play of western life, by Rachel Crothers, was presented at the Madison Square theatre in New York, it received the highest praise from all of the Metropolitan critics, and the blase first neighters of the metropolis found in it a fresh note that particularly appealed to them. And night after night and week after week the little play continued to draw large audiences and delight them, and in all it run for 227 nights before the warm weather put an end to the New York theatrical season. La Crosse playgoers are doubtless familiar with the story of its success, but it will not be until La Crosse has seen the play actually presented that its true charm and beauty will be appreciated here. A play so simple, so gennuine and so perfect in construction cannot be described in a way to convince the reader of its merit. And in this regard "The Three of Us" is like almost all of the best plays that the American stage has known. It is a simple matter in these days of advertising to make known a sensational success but the more genuine successes of the theatre have grown gradually as people have passed from lip to ear their individual opinions of the play. This was decidedly the case with "The Three of Us" in New York. Every person who saw the play became at once a herald of its virtues and in consequence the drama had a run of unusual length. The play will be presented here exactly as it was at the Madison Square theatre.

The cast includes Mabel Cameron, Elise Scott, Jennie La Monte, Henry Hall, Walter Horton, Thomas V. Emery, Henry Fearing, John Prescott and Master Harry Wright.

At the Bijou.

The usual excellent program prevails at the Bijou this week. The Quinn Trio in singing and dancing do an interesting turn. Their dancing is about the best that has graced the Bijou stage this season and the lady member of the trio is especially good. The Quinns—Chris and Jim—have a very pleasing novelty in their sketch, "A Bit of Irish Life." The dialogue is good although the brogue ought to be worked up a little bit more on the real Irish lines. The "Anvil Chorus" from Robin Hood is sung well, given a good setting and meets with great approval from the audience. Another excellent attraction which the Bijou offers this week is Mr. MacLean and Miss Bryant in their one-act farce, "Ootsey," Mr. MacLean playing the dual role of the minister and the cowboy twin brother, and Miss Bryant, the pretty widow to whom the minister is engaged. Mr. MacLean's ministerial role is good but that of the cowboy is extremely sastisfying. He puts into it the real spirit of the plains. Miss Bryant is excellent in her portrayal of the pretty widow, longing for a glimpse of worldly things, but loyal to her minister and his influence.. Incidentally she has a lovely soprano voice which she knows how to use.. The situations are logical and laughable and the one regret that the playlet leaves is that she didn't finish up in the arms of the cowboy instead of the minister.

One of the greatest feature acts which has come to the Bijou is "The Great Wilson," known throughout the theatrical world as having the best single bicycle act in the world. Mr. Wilson's evolutions are indeed wonderful and seemingly more so because done in such limited space as the Bijou stage affords.

The moving pictures are good, the last one especially so, as the story of the sagacity of animals is one that appeals to all. Milton Kerr sings an illustrated song, "You Are the Brightest Star of all My Dreams," in good voice and with excellent expression. Mr. Goetzinger at the piano and Kreutz's orchestra in the pit add much to a most excellent vaudeville performance.

At the Lyric.

We often have the opportunity of seeing still pictures of battleships, our own fleet, and the ships of foreign countries, but seldom if ever has a better chance been given in La Crosse, to really see the monster battleships of a navy in action and maneuvers. This is the case, when the maneuvers of the German navy are shown, among the numerous offerings at the Lyric, and is a most interesting sight. The wonderful views of the ocean are charming and worth going to see if it was the only picture shown. Another good one is the "Manners and Customs in Australia." The educational value of these pictures can not be over estimated, as they give a glimpse of countries and scenes, which the average person may never get to see. Manager West is giving an additional thousand feet of films this week and the entertainment is one that should not be missed.

A Doubt.

"That was rather slighting," said Senator Beveridge of a certain speech. "It was like the speech of the old Adams butler."

"When I was a boy in Adams county Judge Blank was taken very ill. The doctor called regularly, but the judge kept getting worse, and finally the crisis came.

"The morning after the crisis the doctor rang the judge's bell at sunrise.

"'I hope your master's temperature is lower than it was last evening?' he said to the butler anxiously.

"'I'm not so sure about that,' the man answered. 'He died, sir, in the night.'"—Pittsburg Press.

The Woman's Side.

One is apt to stop a moment after this from Evelyn Thaw:

"These women (reporters) have written about me as a woman without a soul, but I wonder how many of them would measure up to my standard of excellence in womanhood had they suffered the trials I have. Their declaration that I married Harry Thaw for his money is a base, cruel lie. Why if I had wanted only money I could have married men worth much more than he. It has been his money that caused all the troubles. It has always been a barrier between us. These women writers have shown neither soul or concience in writing about me. Their mass of lies has created a prejudice in the minds of the public against me which is unwarranted. All that Harry and I ask is for him to be acquitted, and to be left alone."

Oover en Mansoo-ta.

'Tis said poets are born.

But all who are born, or borne, are not poets.

But there are some poets born and Annie and Jim of this little incident are among them.

They have a queer way of "doon tengs oover en Mansoo-ta" and the nearer one gets to Anoka the queerer it is.

So it was not more than passing strange that Annie Brown of Breckenridge, Minn., should advertise through a poem for a husband.

Of course the incident would have been more finished had Atherton Jim, (in reality Martin Peck) answered her more capitulatingly.

Thus Annie Wrote:

A husband, I desire to have;
A husband tall and slender;
Whose manners toward his wife must be
Affectionate and tender.

To beauty I will not object.
For of good looks I am fond;
But this requirement I will make,
His mind must correspond.

And he must neither smoke or chew
That vile and filthy weed.
Which by all ladies of good taste,
Is much abhorred, indeed

His frank and open countenance
Must speak a mind within,
Which will not look with pleasure
On any kind of sin.

If one there be, who thinks he's this,
At least not from it far—
I trust that no unlucky chance
Our happiness may mar.

Jim's Comment.

Atherton Jim now makes his reply to the Leap Year girl's adevrtisement, which reads as follows:

Now, Annie Brown, you've had your say,
And told us what you wanted.
But hardly do I think this world
By such a man is haunted.

He must not smoke, he must not chew,
Nor pleasure find in sinning;
But still the preacher says we sin,
While we our brides are winning.

They mean, of course, the stolen kiss,
The rambling in the gloaming,
The wicked dance, where lurks the chance
To go from virtue roaming.

Now, I could hardly fill the bill,
Nor does it cause me worry,
For I suspect that in that line,
It never pays to hurry.

I will not throw my pipe away
To please the queen of beauty.
And when I see a chance to drink
I deem it is my duty.

I do not think my ways are tough,
But rather I am pacific,
But when my Irish blood is up,
They say I'm quite terrific.

I never lie, I seldom cuss
Except when circumstances
So shape themselves that even cussing
Emphasis enhances.

Now, Annie Brown, don't take offense,
For really, none's intended,
My writing this, comes not amiss,
With naught but truth appended.

But this I say, that come what may,
If you persist in mourning,
And wishing for a sinless man,
Whom virtue loves adorning,

You are apt to find that all that kind
Are up in heaven singing,
And if you want one's company,
You'd best be that way winging.

ALADDIN OF LONDON

BY MAX PEMBERTON

(Authors and Newspaper Association Copyright.)

She admitted the truth with the first smile he had seen since she entered the cottage. His quick bustling manner, the deference he always paid to her, despite his odd phrases, won upon her good humor and led her to open her heart to him.

"My father is going mad," she said quietly—his startled "eh, what," not preventing her; "we are making our house a home for the destitute, and the first arrived just three weeks ago. Imagine a flaxen-haired image of righteousness, who draws my portrait on the covers of books and puts feathers in my hat. He is in love with me, Willy, and he is to be my big brother. Yesterday I took him to Ranalegh and heard a discourse upon the beauties of nature and the wonders of the air and the sky. Oh, my dear man—what a purgatory and what an event. We are going to sell our jewels presently and to live in Whitechapel. My father, I must tell you, seems afraid of this beautiful apparition and implores him every day not to go away. I know that he stops because he is inclined to make love to me.

"Whew—so it's only 'inclined' at present?"

"Absolutely as you say. There appear to be two of us. I have been expecting a passionate declaration — but the recollections of a feathered beauty who once lived in a fairy palace, in a wonderland where you dine upon red herrings—she is my hated rival. I am more beautiful, observe—that is conceded, but he cannot understand me. The feathered hat has become my salvation. My great big brother can't get over it—and oh, the simplicity of the child, the youthful verdant confidence, my Willy. Don't you see that the young man thinks I am an angel and is wondering all the time where the wings have gone to?"

"Ha, ha—he'd better ask Paquin. Are you serious, Anna?"

"As serious as the Lord High Executioner himself. My father has adopted a youth—and I have a big brother. He has consented to dwell in our house and to spend our savings because he believes that by so doing he is in some way helping me. I don't in the least want his help, but my father is determined that I shall have it. I am not to bestow my young affections upon him—nor, upon the other hand, am I to offend him. Admit that the situation is delightful. Pity a poor maiden in her distress."

Willy Forrest did not like the sound of it at all.

"The old chap must have gone dotty," he remarked presently; "they're often taken this way when they get to a certain age. You'll have to sit tight and see about it, Anna. He isn't too free with the ready as it is—and if you've a boy hanging about, God help you. Why don't you be rude to him? You know the way as well as most—eh, what?"

"I'm positively afraid to. Do you know, my dear man, that if this Perfect Angel left us, strange things would happen. My father says so, and I believe he speaks the truth. There is a mystery—and I hate mysteries."

"Get hold of the feathered lady and hear what she has to say."

"Impossible but brilliant. She has gone to Germany."

"Oh, damn—then he'll be making love to you. I say, Anna there's not going to be any billing and cooing or anything of that sort. I'm not very exacting, but the way you look at men is just prussic acid to me. If this kid should begin—"

She laughed drolly.

"He is my great big brother," she said—and then jumping up—"let us go and see the horses. You'll be talking nonsense if we don't. And, Willy, I forbid you to talk nonsense."

She turned and faced him in mock anger, and he, responding instantly, caught her in his arms and kissed her ardently.

"What a pair of cherubs," he exclaimed, "what a nest of cooing doves—I say, Ana, I must kill that kid—or shall it be the fatted calf? There'll be murder done somewhere if he stops at Hampstead."

"If it were done, then when it were done—O let me go, Willy, your arms are crushing me."

He released her instantly and, snatching up a cap, set out with her to the downs where the horses were being stripped for the gallop. The morning of early summer was delightfully fragrant—a cool breeze came up from the sea and every breath invigorated. Old John Farrier, mounted on a sturdy cob, met them at the foot of a great grassy slope and complained that it was over late in the day for horses to gallop, but, as he added, "they'll have to do it at Ascot and they may as well do it here." A silent man, old John had once accompanied Willy Forrest to a dinner at the Carlton which Anna gave to a little sporting circle. Then he uttered but one remark, seeming to think some observation necessary, and it fell from his lips in the pause of a social discussion. "I always eat sparrer-grass with my fingers," he had said, and wondered at the general hilarity.

Old John was unusually silent upon this morning of the trial, and when he named the weights at which the horses would gallop, his voice sank to a sepulchral whisper. "The old 'oss is giving six pounds," he said, "he should be beat a length. If it's more, go cautious, miss, and save your money for another day. He hasn't been looking all I should like of him for a long time—that's plain truth; and when a horse isn't looking all I should like of him, 'go easy' say I and keep your money under the bed."

Anna laughed at the kindly advice and leaving the car she walked to the summit of the hill and there watched the horses—but three pretty specks they appeared—far down in the hollow. The exhilaration of the great open spaces, the wide unbroken grandeur of the downs, the sweetness of the air, the freshness of the day, brought blood to her pallid cheeks and a sparkle of life to her eyes. How free it all was, how unrestrained, how suggestive of liberty and of a boundless kingdom! And then upon it all the excitements of the gallop, the thunder of hoofs upon the soft turf, the bent figures of the jockeys, the raking strides of the beautiful horses—Anna no longer wondered why sport could so fascinate its devotees. She felt at such a moment that she would have gladly put her whole fortune upon Whirlwind.

"He win—he wins—he wins," she cried as the three drew near, and Willy Forrest, watching her with cunning eyes, said that the trap was closed indeed and the key in his possession. Whirlwind, a magnificent chestnut four-year-old, came striding up the hill as though the last furlong of the mile and a half he had galloped were his chief delight. He was a winner by a short head as they passed the post and old John Farrier could not hide his satisfaction.

"He's the best plucked 'un in England today, lady, and you may put your wardrobe on him after that. Be quick about it though, for there'll be no odds to speak of when the touts have written today's work in the newspapers. Go and telegraph your commissions now. There's isn't a minute to lose."

Willy Forrest seconded the proposal eagerly.

"I should back him for five thou," he said as they left the course together, "what's the good of half measures? You might as well play dominoes in a coffee shop. And I can always break the news to your father if you lose."

Anna hardly knew what to say. When she consented finally to risk the money, she did not know that Willy Forrest was thee man who laid against her horse, and that if she lost it would be to him.

"The hoss is good enough," he told himself, "but the near-off is dicky or I never saw one. She'll lose the money and the old boy will pay up—if I compel her to ask him. That depends on the kid. She couldn't help making eyes at him if her life depended on it. Well—she's going to marry me, and that's the long and short of it. Fancy passing a certainty at my time of life. Do I see it—eh, what?"

And so they went their ways: Anna back to London to the solemn routine of the big house; Willy Forrest to Epsom to try, as he said, "and pick up the nimble with a pencil.

5891 Blouse Waist, 32 to 40 bust.

The over blouses that give a guimpe effect are in the height of style and this one is susceptible of great variation while it is both novel and chic. In the illustration louisine silk is piped with velvet and worn over a guimpe of thin lace, but for the blouse itself everything seasonable is appropriate while the guimpe can be made of lace, embroidery or of the still simpler lingerie material or of chiffon as liked. It is entirely separate from the blouse and consequently it can be varied as often as may be liked so that really with very little labor the one blouse can be made to take on two or three quite different shapes. Again, the model is just as well suited to the odd waist as to the entire gown and consequently is an exceedingly valuable acquisition to the possibilities of the wardrobe. In this case the guimpe is made with the new long sleeves but it can be made quite sleeveless and those of the blouse only worn if liked.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3½ yards 21 or 24, 3 yards 32 or 1⅞ yards 44 inches wide; for the guimpe 2¾ yards 21, 2⅜ yards 24 or 1⅝ yards 36 inches wide with 1⅜ yards of allover lace if the long sleeves are used, ⅞ yard for the short sleeves.

The pattern 5891 is cut in sizes for a 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measure and will be mailed to an address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents. (If in haste send an additional two-cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

The first quality of flour that influences the prospective purchaser is its color, for the color of bread is almost entirely dependent upon the quality of the flour.

You may without hesitation compare the color of—

with that of any other flour, for its faultless dressing and perfection of the color of rich creamy hue will thereby be strongly brought out.

BLOOD POISON
HUMILIATING-VILE-DESTRUCTIVE

The first symptom of Contagious Blood Poison is usually a little sore or ulcer, which is quickly followed by a red rash on the skin, swollen glands in the groin, falling hair, ulcerated mouth and throat, and often copper colored splotches on different parts of the body. As the blood becomes more fully contaminated with the poison, pustular eruptions and sores break out on the flesh, and in extreme cases the nerves and bones are attacked and the finger nails drop off. Then the sufferers find themselves diseased from head to foot with this humiliating, vile and destructive poison. No other disease is so highly contagious; many an innocent person has been inoculated by handling the clothing or using the toilet articles of an infected person. There is but one certain, reliable cure for Contagious Blood Poison, and that is S. S. S. It attacks the disease in the right way by going down into the circulation, and neutralizing and forcing out every particle of the poison. It makes the blood pure and rich, tones up the system, and completely and permanently cures this disease. S. S. S. has cured thousands of cases of Contagious Blood Poison. If you are suffering with this debasing and destructive disease begin the use of S. S. S. and get the poison out of your blood before it permanently wrecks your health. We have a home treatment book on the disease which we will send free to all who wish it, and in addition our physicians will give without charge any medical advice needed.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS ARE ENTERTAINED

The North Side lodge of the Royal Neighbors last evening held an entertainment at the Woodman hall. The affair was largely attended. A woman lecturer told of the habits, costumes, etc., of the inhabitants of the Hawaiian islands and gave a graphic description of the life among the islanders.

A song by Master Ambrose Coughlin made the hit of the evening. He was recalled several times. Miss Warren entertained those present with a solo, while Miss Mourning rendered a selection on the piano.

After the entertainment was completed a dance was held.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulæ of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

STATE TO SPEND MONEY THIS YEAR

VAST SUMS ON PENAL AND CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS

$125,000 TWINE FACTORY

State Penitentiary Will Have Addition Which Is Expected to Reap a Neat Profit

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 28.—(Special.)—Large sums will be expended by the state board of control this year at the state charitable and penal institutions, by virtue of appropriations made by the last legislature. The largest single undertaking is the erection of a binder twine factory at the state prison, at Waupun, which calls for the expenditure of $125,000. A building authorized at the state reformatory at Green Pay means the ultimate outlay of $100,000. The plans for the binding twine plant at the state penitentiary are still in the making, and nothing definite respecting the plans is known at this time. The main building will be 90 by 120 or 150 feet, two stories high, of brick construction. A single story warehouse of the same height and nearly as large, wil also be built at the same time. H. C. Koch & Son, Milwaukee, are the architects who are preparing the plans.

The addition to the Green Bay reformatory will be a building to comprise a guard room, school room and dining room. An appropriation of $50,000 is on hand for material, but the structure when completed will cost double this amount. The plans, which are nearly completed, are by Ferry & Clas, Milwaukee.

Bids will be advertised for next week for a women's dormitory building at the school for the deaf at Delavan to cost $35,000. It will be made of brick, with Bedford trimmings, equipped with very modern convenience. It will be three stories high. Howland Russell, Milwaukee, is the architect.

A music building will be built at the school for the blind at Janesville. Bids will probably be called for about March 1. The building will cost $10,000. It will be two stories high, of brick material. Howland Russell, Milwaukee, is the architect.

An appropriation of $1,000 is in the hands of the board of control to be spent this spring for cement sidewalks and cellar floors at the state public school at Sparta.

Sympathetic.

Mrs. Brindle—Now, Mary, I want you to be careful. This is some very old table linen—been in the family for over two hundred years, and—

Mary—Ah, sure, ma'am, you needn't worry. I won't tell a soul, and it looks as good as new, anyway.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR LA GRIPPE

The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. O. T. Erhart.

DECIDE TEMPORARY BUILDING WILL DO

At a meeting of the join committees at the La Crosse club Saturday afternoon it was decided that the Northwestern Saengerbund will be held in a temporary building.

The plan for erecting a permanent auditorium was first taken up and several explained their views, but after considerable discussion it was decided that the undertaking would be too great an the question was dropped.

The next question was that a temporary structure should be erected. The general plan is to let a contract for the building adequate for the accommodation of the fest in a suitable location.

Several plans are on foot, but the matter will be decided upon later. It is the committee's intention to award the contract on condition that the contractor may dispose of the salvage after the building has been torn down.

A committee composed of J. L. Utermoehl, A. A. Bentley, R. B. Gelatt and William Panke was appointed to prepare a letter to the public making an appeal for subscription to make up the balance of the amount required. The committees will meet this afternoon to make a report.

The committee just made a summary of the amount which has been contributed yesterday and met again in the afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of deciding upon other arrangements among them the rendition of several petitions to the council for a site upon which to construct the temporary auditorium.

A fund of $15,000 has already been guaranteed. This fund is to be increased if possible to $25,000. In case the required amount is raised the assessment will then be lower, in proportion, perhaps 40 and maybe 60 per cent.

The board believes that the lumber for the construction of the building can be secured for about $3,000.

Everything is going on smoothly and the three committees are doing excellent work. There will now be no great difficulty in raising the required amount for the auditorium.

How She Shopped.

She looked at ribbons narrow and
  She looked at ribbons wide.
I hauled them out to beat the band;
  To fix her out I tried.
She looked at purple and at pink,
  At blue and brown and red,
I felt my spirits slowly sink,
  And I was nearly dead.
Behind her stood a waiting crowd;
  They pressed on either side,
And their complaints were long and loud.
  To fix her out I tried.
She fingered black, she fingered green
And yellow, gray and white,
And through it all she was serene—
  They, mad enough to bite.
Yet ever she demanded more
  And would not be denied;
You bet the waiting mob was sore.
  To fix her out I tried.
At last she said, "Now, won't you cut
  A sample please, of each?"
I really smiled and did so—but
  Oh, say, she was a peach!

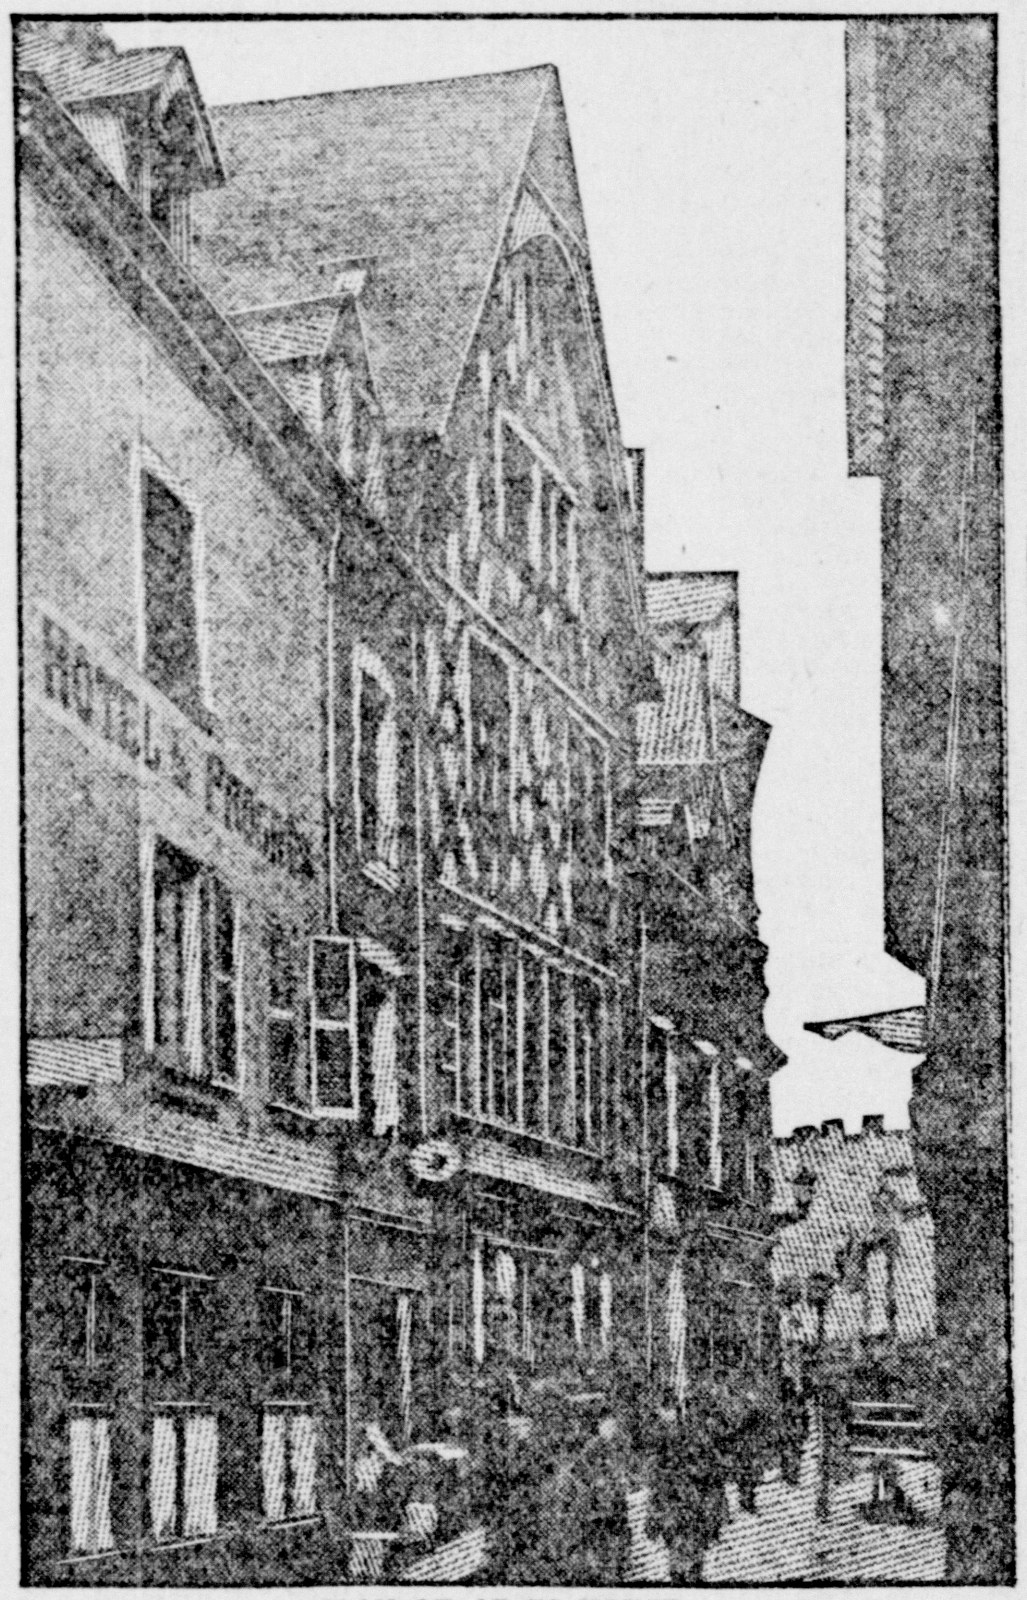
Home of Joan of Arc Still Stands in Orleans, France



JOAN OF ARC'S HOUSE.

In Orleans, France, still stands the house in which Joan of Arc lived 500 years ago. It was not until this year that modern theatrical interests endeavored to secure this house for the purpose of transporting it to New York city and placing it in Central park. One manager telegraphed the mayor of Orleans that he would buy the place and exhibit it in London and in various continental and American cities. Of course the mayor paid no attention to such telegrams and the house still stands where it has stood for 500 years. It will probably be sold for exhibition purposes at about the same time that Washington's home at Mount Vernon is put on the vaudeville circuit and Grant's Tomb is placed on rollers and taken across the continent. This house is linked intimately with the French history and recalls a stirring chapter of the acts of this national heroine.

Liverpool—Close, wheat, unchanged to ⅛d lower; corn, ⅛ to ¼d higher.

Hogs—Close, market mostly 10c lower; estimated tomorrow, 46,000; light, $4.15 to $4.40; mixed, $4.20 to $4.50; heavy, $4.50; rought, $4.20 to $4.25; bulk, $4.35 to $4.40. Cattle, 5,500; steady. Sheep, 15,000; steady.

GOSIP OF THE PIT.

Chicago—Market outlook: Sentiment at close yesterday noticeably more friendly to buying side of wheat. There were reports of better cash business among millers and for export but the export business is denied. A message from the southeast says we are through exporting wheat from this section and with Chicago, New York and Liverpool prices near together it is difficult to figure out how newbus iness would be possible.

The report on reserves by statistician Snow also caused a lot of bullish talk and some buying, especially by the pit shorts who are believed to have greatly reduced their lines.

Look like an easy opening and we think a sagging market unless the market receives the very best of support; $1 for May wheat, however, seems to be regarded by the trade as a buying basis and for the time being purchases around that level is likely to show fair profit.

Liverpool cables—Opening, wheat, ⅜ higher; corn ⅛ higher.

Carlots—Wheat, 63-22; corn, 394-2; oats, 272-15.

Last year—Wheat, 16; corn, 701; oats, 209.

Indemnities—A moderate business was done in indemnities with trade chiefly local. Jackson Marfield and Kidston led the buying of ups on wheat which were sold by Bartlett Frazier and professionals. Ware Leland Barrell and Snyaaker were leaders of down buyers on wheat; Peavy and Shearson sold.

Estimated receipts of hogs, 33,000: left over, 6,258; prospects slow at yesterday's average. Cattle, 5,500; steady. Sheep, 15,000; strong.

New York—Miler & Co. says: We think all the real money is to be made in a continued adherence to the positive side of the account.

A. O. Brown Co.: General conditions seem to be steadily improving and further bullish operations are likely to be stimulated.

Chicago—Stubbornness continues as the leading feature in the wheat and corn markets; the room trade element is against the price of both and they sell it off—or attempt to sell it off, on every strong point to develop. Wheat and corn were attacked in a savage manner once or twice yesterday but the bulls seemed to be too strong for the bears, and prices were not only held, but they were advanced. Nearly every big grain man in the northwest is talking bullish on wheat situation up there and they believe that a big bull campaign is soon to be inaugurated.

Minneapolis cars. Wheat, 167 vs. 196. Corn, 29; oats, 34 rye, 6; barley, 44; flax, 49.

Broomhall Cable: Wheat was quiet at opening; values ⅜ higher followed by a firmer market and further gain of ¼; offerings light; support better; stimulated by the firmer American cables yesterday and a bullish private report cabled by the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., of Montreal. Shorts were nervous and covered some. During the morning there was some reaction on the more liberal offerings of LaPlata wheat but at midday market was steady due to fai demand for spot. Market at this time ¼ higher.

Corn was quiet at start, ⅛ higher; the nearby month held unchanged while the distant month gained an additional ⅛. Buying was result of Snow report yesterday and the fact that Argentine claims damage to the crop from the recent drought.

Swearing the Witnesses.

AN INSIDIOUS DANGER.

One of the worst features of kidney trouble is that it is an insidious disease and before the victim realizes his danger he may have a fatal malady. Take Foley's Kidney Cure at the first sign of trouble as it corrects irregularities and prevents Bright's disease and diabetes. O. T. Erhart.

MONAGHAN LECTURES AT HIGH SCHOOL

Prof. Monaghan of Washington, D. C., gave a very interesting lecture to the students of the La Crosse High school yesterday afternoon on the subject "America and Its Opportunities." The lecture had an educational value as well as being highly interesting and it was very much appreciated by the students. He revealed the many opportunities of this country open to those who are willing to work. Prof. Monaghan was formerly a professor in the University of Wisconsin.

Offender Found.

The supposed offense of posting a notice on the official bulletin board of the High school was committed on Friday morning and before Monday afternoon the offender was found. By superior detective work and forming of conclusions left behind it was found that Jos. A. Bjornstad was the perpetrator of the offense. It developed later that he was the advertising manager of the minstrel show and that the posting of the notice was only a scheme to advertise the show. The date of the play has been changed from the 7th of February to the 14th on account of examination week which will necessitate a fewer number of herearsals.

CUBS' FOOD
They Thrive on Grape-Nuts.

Healthy babies don't cry and the well-nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food, Grape-Nuts, and get well.

"My little baby was given up by three doctors who said that the condensed milk on which I had fed her had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked 1½ tablespoonfuls in one pint of cold water for half an hour, then I strainged off the liquid and mixed 12 teaspoonfuls of this strained Grape-Nuts juice with six teaspoonfuls of rich milk, put in a pinch of salt and a little sugar, warmed it and gave it to baby every two hours.

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong healthy child, rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies on and is also a delicious healthful food for grown-ups as we have discovered in our family."

Grape-Nuts is equally valuable to the strong, healthy man or woman. It stands for the true theory of health. "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Rank Foolishness.

"When attacked by a cough or a cold, or when your throat is sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldridge, of Empire, Ga., "I have used New Discovery seven years and I know it is the best remedy on earth, for coughs and colds, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. My children are subject to croup, but New Discovery quickly cures every attack." Known the world over as the King of thoat and lung remedies. Sold under guarantee at O. T. Erhart's drug store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

CARL OLSON MAKES HIT AS CARLSON

That Carl Olson, the well known local Swede comedian is making a hit in the "Prince of Sweden" is indicated by the following from the Montezuma, Iowa, Palladium of Jan. 20:

"The 'Prince of Sweden' company played to a crowded house last Monday night. The company is a good one and their production please the audience. The cast is well balanced and the leading characters received excellent support. Some how or other the people always look for humorous situations in a Swede play and in this instance they were not disapponted. Mr. Olson, as Carl Carlson, made a 'hit' with our people and the company will be welcomed back at any time.

BOLD ROBBERY AT HIGH SCHOOL

A robbery was committed last week at the High school in broad daylight under the eyes of the faculty of the school. No one was injured by it, but the theft was positively the boldest that has occurred in the vicinity. Nothing can be done about punishing the offenders, as there is not enough evidence to convict them. The crime was committed on the 20th of January by the management of the minstrel show which stole a number of popular pieces of music from various comic operas. These pieces will be used in the minstrel show which is to be given on the 14th of February.

LYRIC HAS GERMAN FLEET IN PICTURES

The program at the Lyric theatre this week is exceptionally fine. Manager W. J. West has succeeded in getting a series of pictures of the German fleet, the largest in the world. It shows a line of twenty battleships, accompanied by a torpedo boat flotilla. This picture is probably the only one ever taken of so large a group of boats and is brought here at a large expense on the part of the management.

The film is of more than ordinary interest ot citizens, because of the recent sailing of the great American fleet for the Pacific and gives one a fairly good idea of how the fleet appeared as it sailed out of Hampton Rhodes on the longest cruise ever taken by a fleet of battleships.

Paul Nicholson as Con Ryan in "The Girl Question," La Crosse Theatre, Saturday.

The other film, Life and Costumes in Africa, is both interesting and educational, giving correct views of the inhabitants and costumes of the Africans. It shows street scenes in Melbourne and also a large African Ostrich farm. The funny pictures are unusually comical.

A thoroughbred is a man who buys pictures of actresses, and claims they were given to him by the parties they represent.

Don't Bake Beans

With all your trouble you can't get anything half so good as Van Camp's

It isn't your fault, but you lack the facilities.

It requires a fierce heat to break down the fibre of beans, and you cannot apply it.

That is why home-cooked beans are hard to digest. That is why you regard them as heavy food.

Beans, above all foods, need to be factory cooked.

Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees That's why our beans are digestible

And we bake in live steam, so all are baked well without browning or breaking. That's why they are mealy, yet nutty.

They are baked in the cans—the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together. Thus their delicious blend.

You can't do as we do, because you lack the facilities. Why bother to try it? Let us cook for you.

Van Camp's pork and beans baked with tomato sauce

We use Michigan beans, picked over by hand from the choicest part of the crop.

Only the whitest, the plumpest, the fullest-grown.

Our tomatoes are not picked green and ripened in shipment, but ripened in full on the vines.

That gives to our sauce its superlative zest.

We could buy beans for one-seventh, and sauce for one-fifth what we pay

We pay $2.10 per bushel for our beans, though beans are sold as low as thirty cents.

We could buy tomato sauce, ready made, for exactly one-fifth what we spend to make it.

No wonder if some brands sell cheaper than ours. But you will never accept them after you once try Van Camp's.

10, 15 and 20¢ per can.

PLEADS FOR IDEALS IN OUR CITIZENSHIP

PROF. MONAGHAN DELIVERS A GREAT LECTURE.

STRENGTH OF CONTRASTS

Speaker Tells of Wonderful Possibilities in This Country by Development of Ideals.

An address of rare scope and interest and of contrast of example, "Ideals in Education" was given at the La Crosse theatre last evening by Prof. J. C. Monaghan under the auspices of the local council Knights of Columbus.

Attorney John F. Doherty, past grand knight of the order, introduced the speaker.

The speaker had also addressed the pupils of the La Crosse High school during the afternoon and a large number of the high school pupils and their friends were present during the evening. Many priests and others from outside the city were also in attendance.

Prof. Monaghan.

As an introduction Prof. Monaghan said that the United States was destined to be great. People are flocking here. Many of the people here however, preach the doctrine of discontent in which they would make void the constitution of the United States. They are coming here from all parts of the world, about a million coming over last year, and some few thousands of these come over to preach the doctrine of discontent. They are the diseased element of the new world. Take the Russians for instance. Their greatest man, one of the greatest the world has ever know, preached that there should be no head of government but that each should live the "simple life." This is a great country from one ocean to the other and from the Gulf to Canada, but it is not large enough for any red flag to take the place of the flag for which our forefathers fought. (Applause.) We did not invite them over here. If they don't like it they can go back where they came from, and allow us to solve our own problems as we may see fit.

"Cast your bread on the waters and after many days it will return to you." Now if you cast ordinary bread upon the waters it will not come back. It does not mean bread of that kind. Take for example the people who reside on the river Nile. When the waters rise they go out with rice which is the bread which they cast upon the waters. The little streams of water are running down to the main stream and the sower goes out with his bags of rice at his side and throws the rice on every side. Then, when the harvest comes he gathers his crop and he reaps perhaps a hundred or a thousand fold.

Thus the Knights of Columbus are casting bread upon the waters of the education of the country and it is already beginning to bear fruit. Last year we gave $50,000 toward the University at Washington and this year we will give $500,000 more for the puprose of education.

Open Discussion.

If a democrat comes here, give him a full house, if a republican comes here, give him a big house, if a socialist comes here give him, too, a full house—let them all have what they wish to say.

It is hard for some people to understand the struggle between the state and the church, and the subsequent confiscation of the property of the church in France. It is hard to understand the encylical of Modernism and the Knights of Columbus propose to explain these facts in their own way by telling the people in an open, earnest, straightforward, declaration of the truth, and to preach so as to encourage constructive criticism, instead of destructive criticism.

Dr. Harrington Comes Next.

In regard to Dr. Harrington who will speak at the theatre some time later the professor said that he regarded him as one of the most splendid citizens of the state of Wisconsin as well as a most able speaker.

The Jews First.

Some would place the Greeks at the head of culture and civilization, but I will place the Jews first, although you may think it strange for me to do so.

Of course they had no art or no ideals. They had a law which said "Thou shalt not make unto me any graven image," and this therefore shut them out from sculpture and painting.

But they excelled in history. The Greeks or any historian to the present time have no history which can in any way begin to compare with the story of Genesis to Christ; there are no laws equal to those of Leviticus and the ten commandments; no eloquence of Cicero or Demosthenes can equal that of Isiah.

The Jews taught us that there was but one God.

The Greeks gave us art, literature, sculpture and architecture.

The Romans gave us government, and discipline of the army and nation, and these are about all the great gifts the world has received from nations.

The Greeks are among the greatest benefactors the world has ever known and yet there is no wisdom equal ot that of Solomon; no philosphy of Plato, Aristotle, or of the great Socrates is equal to that of the literary Jews or Israelites. A study of the Greek language seems to be a store-house of knowledge and this language seems to be but the "Golden Key" to the other languages. And yet all those are yours—any one can get them, not for the asking, but for the work.

The classics cannot die.

Justinian's codification of the laws was the great well-spring of all the institutional development which culminated finally in the constitution of the great Declaration of Independence.

Children.

I wish I could make every parent see that every boy and girl, like the great blocks of marble which Michael Angelo used to carve out, would be seen to contain an angel within.

I do not wish to be hypocritical, but the children of today are petted and pampered and spoiled until they become a terror not only to their own house but also to the neighbors The ideal of education is to keep a child a child as long as you can. I addressed the high school pupils this afternoon and I made the mistake to say, "boys and girls," whereupon they all began to giggle. I then said, "Pardon me—ladies and gentlemen"—and then they were happy. Today the evening dress is put on a girl or boy long before they should leave the home for an occasion of that kind.

In Washington I heard one afternoon a litle boy of about 8 years old get out on the floor and deliver an address which occupied fully fifteen minutes. It was marvelous. I was interested and knew that his parents must be intellectual. I looked for them and found them to be what you would call in fairly decent circumstances. I said to the father, "Do you love your child?" "Certainly," he answered. "Well, if you do, don't torture your child in that way." That evening I saw the same performance done over again. The same child was trotted out on the floor with the same speech. This will spoil the child's possibility of future development.

Lawyers.

Law and justice should be synonymous. They are not. I had a brother-in-law in New England who was offered $100 by a lawyer just to disagree and to sit there and sulk and not say a word. He refused. I told him afterward that what he should have done was to lead him on for more, and land him in the penitentiary.

Divorce.

There are 3,000 divorce courts in the United States grinding out divorces. They are the best paying business the lawyer has. There should be an ideal for the lawyer that he should not aid a divorce unless it can be proven by a minister or other responsible person that there is an absolute reason for it.

Physicians.

The ideal of the physician—I will say that he should just take the one law—Thou shalt not kill. There would then be more litle babes in the cribs smiling at their happy mothers.

Ideals Not Too Great.

The Japs are everywhere and adopting what they like; they adopt it to themselves and they are becoming adept. They learn Chinese for China, the great country which is to be developed; they learn Japanese for Japan, of course, but they learn English, for us.

The ideals must be developed. We are almost utterly devoid of them.

A child has the physical, moral, aesthetic, intellectual and social side—it is as plain as A B C. Its aspirations and fancies should not be crushed.

I do not believe that we should only be as good, but should look to be better than other nations, for we have inherited the experiences of all before us and what we have, have been and will be is too great for anticipation.

There is no ideal, and it should be taught by the teachers and from the pulpit, which is too high for the American citizen and man of the future.

Wm. Vedder of 9 Ingersoll Avenue, Schenectady, Tells How Father John's Medicine Cured His Lungs and Built Up His Strength.

"Last fall, I had a severe attack of pneumonia and was confined to the house for four months. At the end of that time I was still suffering from a hard, racking cough, from which the doctors could give no relief. I tried everything I could think of or hear of but with no beneficial result. In this condition I returned to work. One day a shopmate, who noticed how I was suffering, advised me to try a bottle of Father John's Medicine. I did so and began to get relief at once. I was soon cured of the cough and able once more to take a good night's rest, but fearing that the cough might return, I continued taking the medicine until I had used twelve bottles. When I began to take the medicine I was in a very weak condition, but I gained in strength rapidly and am now as strong as ever. I believe my cure was due entirely to Father John's Medicine and I heartily recommend it to all who are similarly afflicted." (Signed) William Vedder, 9 Ingersoll avenue, Schenectady, N. Y.

DISEASED FLOATER COMES TO LA CROSSE

MINNESOTA QUARANTINE LAW IS RAISED

OFFICER MURPHY TALKS

Gives His Views on the Ridiculousness of Interfering With the Laws Covering Disease.

"The quarantine law in the state of Minnesota has been raised only about a month, only since the first of January, and yet the citizens of that state are already beginning to see the folly of repealing the quarantine act," said Health Officer Anthony Murphy this morning.

"The fact that Minnesota has now no quarantine law exposes the citizens of La Crosse and other cities which border on the state of Minnesota to a greater responsibility, as they must now not only look after the cases which might come under their eyes in their locality, but must also take care of the so-called "floaters" which come in from these states which have no quarantine law."

One Case Here.

Fred Patterson, a floater" who was taken ill with smallpox, is now being cared for by Health Officer Murphy. "I cannot see why La Crosse should go to the expense of caring for these persons on account of the carelessness and independent air of the non-quarantine states," said the health officer. "Hereafter when such cases come under my supervision I will take them across the bridge and have them taken care of in the state from which they come, where they rightfully belong.

"The multiplication of infectious cases since the quarantine law has been repealed in Minnesota is very great. At Lanesboro and a number of other smaller towns are a large number of cases, some of the patients being so infected that they expose themselves until they die.

At some of these places children go to school with scabs and scales on them and the condition of affairs is simply criminal.

Care Should Be Exercised.

"From time to time the health department has urged upon the public the need of caution in contagious diseases. Lives could be saved if it was not for the way in which some persons persist in doing things. Many of them do not feel at all flattered when the department tells them how unclean and careless they are, after one tires of cautioning them of the danger of infection from one to another.

"This is especially demonstrated in the family where one child is afflicted and the others are allowed to play in the same room with it and to kiss and fondle the sick one. Even the mother 'takes a hand' in this dangerous work. Do not allow your children to run from the room where there is a sick one, to the alley, or lot where there are others. It is criminal to endanger your neighbor in this manner just because the authorities do not happen to be in the vicinity.

Clean Up Properly.

"Very often some member of the family becomes afflicted some time after the quarantine is raised, showing that something has been neglected in the way of cleaning up; as, for example, the carpets, which should not be in the room with a contagious case, for it is absolutely impossible to disinfect them safely. The clothes should be of the kind that can be washed and boiled; the sheets and gowns changed frequently and immerged in a disinfectant solution.

Terrors of Scarlet Fever.

"Especially, this should be done in cases of scarlet fever. Few people are aware of the active infectious nature of this disease and the awful consequences which result to children, receiving afflictions of the eyes, ears, and throat that mar them for life and which might, by carefully isolating the first child, have saved the others. The same applies in diphtheria. People go about for some time fearing they might be quarantined if the truth were known. The go about inspecting those with whom they may come in contact.

Advises Vaccination.

"Much good could be done if people would be more cautious. I request the heads of the families to see that their children are successfully vaccinated.

Smallpox Vanquished.

"It is considerably more than one hundred years since Dr. Jenner introduced this method for the prevention of smallpox, and most any man of intelligence knows the ridicule in which vaccination has been held by the superstitious and ignorant; but, it has fought its way until today in countries like Germany, smallpox is scarcely known.

"As vaccination becomes more general the mortality among children and also in the army is practically nil. There is no longer any fear as to the results of vaccination. The process is entirely void of danger, but there are those that refuse to be convinced, and they are the ones that cry out the most for protection of quarantine.

Vaccination Oversteps Quarantine.

"But in some countries and states they have so much faith in vaccination that they have abolished quarantines altogether, and thus a hardship has been inflicted, as on us by our sister state of Minnesota, which has abolished the quarantine law.

People are allowed to go about as they please, and there is no restraint on the afflicted from going from one state to another, thus making it a hardship on the state that does enforce the quarantine law.

I know of one town in Minnesota in which we have many friends, that has 50 cases of smallpox at the present time. That state chose between vaccination or the wrath of smallpox in all its terror, disfigurement, and, not infrequently, death. Get vaccinated, and if not successful, get revaccinated."

JURY IN BANKRUPTCY CASE GETS QUESTION

MUST ANSWER TWO QUERIES GIVEN BY COURT.

ACTION GOES TO THE JURY

Case Draws Special Interest Here Owing to Similarity to German American Bank Litigation

A special verdict of two answers to an equal number of questions will be rendered by the jury in the suit of Sidney H. Stuart against the Farmers State bank, Cuba City, Wis., for the recovery of $8,000 alleged to have been paid by Ralph B. Luckey a bankrupt to the bank in preference to other creditors. The case has been on trial before Judge Fruit in circuit court th last week, and was given ot the jury shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Following are the questions submitted to the jury by the court upon agreement by the attorneys for the plaintiff and defendant:

Question1.—Were the loans of April 11, 1905, made by the defendant bank of $7,500 and $250 loans

Question 2.—Did the officers of the defendant bank, acting therein on Dec. 5, 1905, have reasonable cause to believe that by the payments made by said Luckey to said bank on said day, it was intended thereby to give the bank a preference, that is, to enable the bank to obtain a greater percentage of its debts than it would be obtained by any other of Luckey's creditors of the same class?

The case is of unsual interest here, because the stockholders of the German American bank are defendants in a similar action brought by the trustee of the La Crose Cheese & Butter company for the recovery of $39,000 alleged to have been made as a preferred payment to the bank, when the company went bankrupt.

and it was for this that he demanded a division of the property.

The first time that he threatened to commit suicide, which was last summer, he went on a fishing trip up the river with Joseph Sokolik, a personal friend, and was only persuaded from the rash deed by the talk of Mr. Sokolik. Within the last two weeks the old quarrel is said to have been renewed, although it had been dropped for the last two days and the day of the suicide nothing whatever was said concerning it. Mr. Goettche who is a carpenter at the Michel brewery, is supposed to have come directly from work and to have started about his work of self destruction when he found his wife gone.

Both he and his wife had been married before and both had children by their first marriages.

Mr. Goettche was married in Germany and had one child, Mrs. Tom Rudolf of this city, by his first wife. His first wife died in Germany some time ago.

Mrs. Goettche was married to a man by the name of Platz and had two children, both boys and both residing in La Crosse.

Mr. Goettche was 48 years of age.

No Inquest.

No inquest will be held to determine the cause of the death of Goettche. District Attorney Bosshard is convinced that the case is one of suicide, and therefore decided not to hold an inquest.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence.

PLANS READY FOR GREAT REVIVALS

A large chorus and orchestra will be organized to lead in the singing. This chorus will be composed not alone of the present members of the chorus of the church, but also of singers from various other churches of the city.

FIREMEN OVERCOME IN FIGHTING FIRE

SIX ALMOST LOSE LIVES AT CLINTON, IA.

PROPERTY LOSS $150,000

Fish Brothers Manufacturing Plant Is Nearly Destroyed—Origin of Blaze Is Unknown.

CLINTON, Ia., Jan. 28.—Fire of unknown origin almost completely destroyed the plant of the Fish Brothers' Manufacturing company, one of the most extensive wagon works in the state. Six firemen, including the chief were overcome by smoke and now are in the hospital. Damage of $150,000 was done to the plant, which was valued at $200,000. The insurance amounts to $100,000 distributed among about 100 companies. Last night the flames were under control.

The fire started in a dry kiln at 10 o'clock in the morning and before noon the main building was reduced to ashes. The flames communicated to the company's lumber yards, which were entirely consumed, together with some smaller buildings, nothing remaining last night but the paint shops and blacksmith shops, lumber sheds and office buildings. Fire walls protected the paint shop, in which combustibles were kept. Six city firemen were overcome by smoke during the day, including Fire Chief Tom Price, and were removed to hospitals.

The plant had been in operation for thirteen years and employed 300 men. C. F. Curtis is president and H. W. Seaman, vice president of the company. It was said that the plant probably will be rebuilt.

NEW BOAT TAKES PLACE OF "JAP"

Since the City of Hudson was burned some time ago the little steamer Jap has been plying between La Crosse and the Brownsville route, and since its size is inadequate, Captain Hiram Brazee has recently completed the construction of a new boat at Victory, Wis., which will be amply fitted for the business on that route for the coming season.

Mr. Calvert said this morning that the specifications of the boat provided for motor power, with a barge, and that the length of the boat would be 83.5 feet, and width 12.5 feet.

No, Maude, dear, when a conductor knocks down a fare we should scarcely call it assault and battery.

FUSE GOES OUT; PLOT IS FOILED

ATTEMPT TO KILL FAMILY IS A FAILURE

DYNAMITE UNDER HOUSE

None of Intended Victims Would Have Escaped if Accident Had Not Occurred as It Did

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 28. — The fuse went out before the dynamite that had been placed beneath the house was exploded, and that was what saved the lives of eighteen people residing in Matt Kronic's boarding house, a mile west of Hibbing, Thursday night.

Four large sticks of the explosive wrapped in a piece of underwear had been placed directly under the house and the fuse was lighted, but went out when only about three inches of it remained.

There was enough dynamite to reduce the boarding house to kindling wood, and nobody could in reason have been expected to escape alive.

Suspect Arrested.

The news of this latest dynamite outrage on the range became public when Nick Brickerch was arrested. Suspicion rested on him because the piece of underwear is similar to some of his. The prisoner was formerly employed by Kronic, who is a mine boss as well as a boarding house keeper.

Kronic says that Friday morning he found the banking about the house torn up and a space under the house large enough for a man to get through. Upon investigation he found a fuse partly burned leading to a bag in which were four sticks of dynamite and beside it were unburned matches.

Had Trouble With Man.

Kronic suspects Brickerch. For some time prior to last October Brickerch had been employed under Kronic, but had been discharged. Since then Kronic says he has been having trouble with him.

A few days prior to the outrage Brickerch had a suit of underwear identical with that wrapped about the dynamite washed at the Kronic house, according to Kronic.

A hearing of the case will be held at Hibbing today.

Their Homes Guarded.

BIWABIK, Minn., Jan. 28.—J. A. Jonas, the young socialistic agitator, and his two Austrian companions are still held in the village jail at Aurora on the charge of having been implicated in the dynamiting of the dwelling of Capt. T. J. Nicholas at the Mohawk mine. They have not been able to secure the legal counsel that might bring about their release, and have not as yet made application for bail.

Practically all of the houses of mining superintendents and mining captains are now guarded. The detectives say that there was a general conspiracy and one of far-reaching proportions.

A Higher Health Level.

"I have reached a higher health level since I began using Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes Jacob Springer, of West Franklin, Maine. "They keep my stomach, liver and bowels working just right." If these pills disappoint you on trial, money will be refunded at O. T. Erhart's drug store, 25c.

NORTHWEST IN BRIEF

PINE CITY, Minn.—The Pine City high school debating team was defeated by the Virginia high school, the judges voting two to one in favor of the Virginians.

MANKATO, Minn.—After an extended hearing in the bankruptcy court, when the order to show cause why the plant of the Mankato Malting company should not be sold at auction to satisfy the claims was opposed by unwilling interests, the court made an order that the plant be sold at public auction on Feb. 27. The plant represents an investment of something like $175,000.

MENOMINEE, Mich.—Joseph Busham, a Pole, was found early Saturday morning lying unconscious on the street. After regaining consciousness he said that he had been assaulted and robbed of $75. The man was employed at Watersmeet and was en route for Milwaukee.

ROSEMOUNT, Minn.—Michael Mahoney, a farmer living a few miles west of here, lost six head of cattle recently by the overturning of a straw stack.

TYLER, Minn.—Magandy & Rasmussen, butchers, were robbed Wednesday of $75 worth of furs, consisting of 200 muskrat skins and eight mink. The burglar is believed to have been hiding under a counter.

SIOUX CITY, Ia.—Following a desperate feud among the icemen of Sioux City, a big charge of dynamite, said to have been laid by rival dealers, blew up the Missouri river ice field of H. M. Nickum and Charles Lungren, destroying $3,000 worth of the product. The dynamite tore a hole out of the river ice as big as four city blocks.

MOORHEAD, Minn.—Dr. Louis Nelson of this city and a party of friends have returned from Stake lake, where they have been fishing, with reports of a catch by the doctor of a muscallonge which weighed nearly sixteen pounds. Several were caught averaging about ten puonds, and during the afternoon a score or more of pickerel were landed. The fishing was done through holes in the ice and perch were used for bait.

It Does the Business.

Mr. E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." 25c at O. T. Erhart's drug store.

WINONA POLICE CAPTAIN BEATEN

WINONA, Minn., Jan. 28.—Albert Hanson and James Hurley, who, it is alleged, assaulted Night Captain McCaffery of the police force and slugged him in the head, leaving him insensible on the street, are both under arrest. It also is charged that both men pulled guns and threatened to use them when officers went to their homes to arrest them.

Capt. McCaffery was insensible for two hours after the assault. While seriously injured, it is believed he will recover.

Trouble started when McCaffery warned the young fellows against obscene talking on the streets. He went to arrest Hurley and Hanson is said to have slugged him and both ran. Later, while the officer was looking for them, Hanson is accused of having waylaid Capt. McCaffery in a dark place and beaten him on the head with a club.

FINGER PRINTS ON THROAT OF WOMAN

NEW CLUE IN JANESVILLE MURDER MYSTERY

DOCTOR UNABLE TO AGREE

Some Claim Suicide and Others Not —One Physician Says Marks Were Not There When Found

JANESVILLE, Wis., Jan. 28. — Three punctures of the skin on the right side of the throat and one on the left side, discovered by Drs. James Gibson, W. D. Merritt and Charles Sutherland in a second examination of Josephine Malone's body yesterday, seemed to offer confirmation of the belief entertained by many that both this woman and Madelyn Odell Clayton were first choked to a state of insensibility and thrown in the river. Dr. J. W. St. John disagrees with the other physicians and insists that the marks were not there when the body was first examined and that in any even they could not have been made by a human hand.

The Rev. Father W. A. Goebel, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, is so certain that death was not self-inflicted that he contested the funeral services at his place of worship at 8:45 o'clock this morning.

The brothers are equally confident that the woman did not take her own life and regard the theory that she might have been attacked by an epileptic fit and wandered into the river as equally absurd. District Attorney J. L. Fisher thinks there is something more to the case than suicide, but in view of the doubtful evidence has as yet not felt warranted in calling a coroner's jury.

Frederick (Clayton) Lanauette, the clairvoyant whose wife met her death in an equally mysterious manner less than eight weeks ago, has arrived here from Chicago and volunteers his assistance in running this ugly dual mystery to the earth. The finding of this body in the same quarter of the river and under similar circumstances confirms his belief that ihs wife was murdered and that the unfortunate dressmaker came to her death at the same hands.

DYNAMITE IN FLASH POWDER EXPLODES

MAYVILLE, Wis., Jan. 28.—Seated at a banquet at the home of Geo. Goding, manager of the Mayville office of the Wisconsin Telephone company, fifteen guests, members of two bowling teams, were knocked insensible by the terrific explosion of dynamite.

Mr. Golding suffered severe injuries, two fingers and the thumb of his right hand being blown off. Leo Schwartz was hit on the breast by a flying missile and seriously burned about the head and shoulders. Other guests suffered loss of hair and eyebrows and serious and painful burns.

The banquet guests were posing for a flashlight photograph an the accident was due to the fact that some one had allowed some high explosive to become mixed with the flashlight powder.

The dining room of Mr. Goding's residence was wrecked.

SISTERS
Would Not Allow Coffee Used.

It doesn't take very long, only long enough to get well away from the bad effects of caffeine—the drug in Coffee—and a little while for Postum to commence toning up the nerves and your reformed coffee drinker will begin to put on flesh and show an improved condition generally.

An Indiana man says:—

"I knew for a long time that coffee was running my system down. For the last five years I have been troubled with my stomach but didn't seem able to quit coffee. Finally I took down sick and my doctor told me to stop coffee.

"I tried milk and hot water but got tired of both. About that time while on a visit to my cousin she recommended Postum, claiming that it had done so much for her.

"She was looking stouter and was not at all nervous, while I was shaking at the least excitement. Her husband told me that the sisters at the hospital where he worked used Postum and wouldn't allow any coffee to be used.

"I came home and began using Postum and in a few days noticed improvement which continued, until now, I must say, that I am feeling fine. The more I drink Postum the better I like it. I make it according to directions on the package which gives it its good rich taste.

"I have thanked my cousin many times for telling me about Postum, for it has done great good to my nerves and whole system. Before I quit coffee and began to use Postum I was troubled with toothache and headache, besides the steady old grind of stomach troubles. Now I have none of them." "There's a Reason."

SECRET LOVER DIES; WOMAN IS A SUICIDE

TAKES CARBOLIC ACID WHEN LEARNING OF DEATH

HUSBAND FINDS LETTERS

Is Shocked at Finding Body of Wife —Missives Tell of Strange Attachment Between Dead

OSHKOSH, Wis., Jan. 28.—To depart for the theatre of his daily toil in the morning, happy in the possession of wife and home; to return at evening only to find that wife a suicide and to learn that for years she had secretly nourished a love for another man—that is the sad experience of Warren Nichols, who is connected with the Diamond Match company of this city. Mr. Nichols is heartbroken, not only because of the shock at discovering the dead body of his wife, her face burned and blackened with carbolic acid, but also because of that other fearful discovery that her love had passed from him to another man. It was, in fact, because of the death of this other man that the unfortunate woman had ended here life.

Found Nearly Dead.

Mr. Nichols states that he had no premonition of impending disaster when he entered his pretty and comfortably furnished abode at 141 Pearl street on the fatal evening. Finding the house dark, he proceeded to his wife's room, fearing that she was ill, as she had complained somewhat of the grip in the morning. There he found her stretched across the bed unconscious. She was still alive, but barely so. Two physicians were obtained, a stomach pump and emetics were brought into play, but all efforts proved ineffectual. Nearby was found a two ounce bottle that had evidently contained carbolic acid, and it was the opinion of the physician that Mrs. Nichols had taken the full amount. The name of the druggist had been carefully scratched off.

Husband Discovers Letters.

At first, Mr. Nichols was absolutely at a loss to conjecture a cause for the act. But on rummaging through his wife's belongings, he discovered that she had been carrying on a clandestine correspondence with a railroad man, formerly of this city, but lately of the west. With this clue, the police set to work and they found that the woman on the day of her death had been informed of the accidental death of her lover, he having been killed in a railroad accident in a western state. Then, it would seem, the woman proceeded immediately to a drug store, purchased the carbolic acid and going home, took the fatal draught.

Mrs. Nichols was 30 years of age. The couple have been married four years. She is the daughter of a prominent Fond du Lac county farmer.

BEWARE OF COLDS.

Health Officers Say They Are the Primary Cause of Consumption.

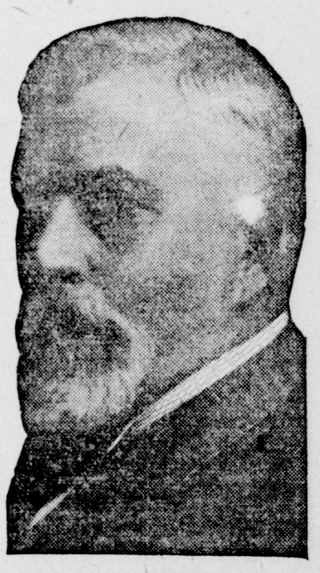
The ravages of the dread "white plague" has aroused in the national health departments the keenest alarm and every effort is now being put forth to prevent its further spread. A prominent physician on the advisory board recently summed up the situation in a very simple manner by declaring that if people would give common colds the proper attention the increase of consumption would be materially checked. A neglected cold weakens the entire system and especially the pulmonary organs and renders them liable to the attack of the tubercle germ. He also gave the formula for a very simple remedy for colds which he claimed if generally known would prevent an enormous amount of suffering and eventually save many lives. The formula is as follows:

Two ounces of glycerine; one half ounce Concentrated oil of pine; half pint of good whiskey; this is to be used in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours the bottle shaken well each time.

He claims this will cure any cough that is curable and frequently break up a severe cold in twenty-four hours.

He cautions that care should be taken to get the real Concentrated oil of pine which any first class drug store can supply. It is put up in birchwood boxes for dispensing, thus avoiding the bulk oils and patent medicine imitations which are insoluble and often injurious.

CHARGE CARNEGIE WITH BIG BLUNDER



RICHARD T. CRANE.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—Richard T. Crane, the wealthy Chicago manufacturer, designates Carnegie's gifts to Chicago mechanical school as a $12,000,000 blunder. His ground is that while a reasonable and fundamental mechanical education is essential to success, there is no need of devoting the best years of one's life to this. He contends that the young man could gain more by starting to work in some factory.

Andrew Carnegie has just written Mr. Crane, defending the higher education in mechanical lines.

LOSE LIST OF PARTY PRECINCT MEMBERS

BELOIT, Wis., Jan. 28.—Who are the members of Beloit's party precinct committee? Are there any members, and if so what has bevome of the record of their election?

At the primary election on Sept. 3, 1906, a space on the ballots read "Party Precint Committee, vote for three men," and three spaces were left in which the voter was supposed to write the names of his candidates. It is known that several men were voted for, and that in one ward, at least, seven votes were cast for one candidate. But who these men were is now a mystery.

Now, when it becomes necessary that a list of inspectors of election be submitted to the mayor, it has been found that there is no committee for such a purpose. County Clerk Lee was communicated with and can find no record of any such committee for this city.

A Cure for Misery.

"I have found a cure for the misery malaria poison produces," says R. M. James, of Louellen, S. C. "It's called Electric Bitters, and comes in 50 cent bottles. It breaks up a case of chills or a bilious attack in almost no time; and it puts yellow jaundice clean out of commission." This great tonic medicine and blood purifier gives quick relief in all stomach, liver and kidney complaints and the misery of lame back. Sold under guarantee at O. T. Erhart's drug store.
